

The Chesapeake Bay Foundation invites you to join us for a Professional Learning Course:

What: Environmental Literacy in Independent Schools

In partnership with AIMS, VAIS, and AISGW, join CBF for an amazing professional learning experience. Acquire the knowledge, skills, and attitude to incorporate the local environment into your curriculum. Learn to engage your students in individual collective action by investigating the changing landscape of the Bay watershed. This professional learning opportunity will give you the tools to build your students environmental literacy with an interdisciplinary approach.

Chesapeake Classrooms “...is a perfect blend of active listening and lively conversation...of land and water, of observation and participation, of experts and novices....”
Terry Milton, a Chesapeake Classrooms alumni

When: July 25 – 29, 2016

Where: 3 days/2 nights at CBF’s Karen Noonan Education Center, 2 day trips in the mid-Shore area

Cost: $300 course fee covers all activities, materials, lodging, and food during island overnight

Credit: Recertification credit available; graduate credits available (extra fee and project required)

Registration: www.cbf.org/CCsummer > click the July tab

Chesapeake Classrooms is supported by the National Geographic Education Foundation.

Questions? Contact Claire Jaeger cjaeger@cbf.org or Visit our professional learning homepage - cbf.org/chesapeakeclassrooms

CHESAPEAKE BAY FOUNDATION
6 Herndon Ave • Annapolis, MD 21403 Phone: 410/268-8816 • Fax: 410/268-6687

CHESAPEAKE BAY FOUNDATION
Saving a National Treasure